▲ Stock market risk

is the risk that prices of stocks comprising the S&P 500 Index will decline. Stock markets tend to move in cycles, with periods of rising and falling prices.

▲ Investment style risk is the chance that returns from large-capitalization stocks will trail returns from the overall stock market. Large-cap stocks tend to go through cycles of doing better—or worse—than other segments of the stock market or the stock market in general. In the past, these periods lasted for as long as several years.

▲ Risk of delay to copy Portfolios is the risk that the market price of the SPDR S&P500 ETF or iShares Core S&P 500 UCITS ETF that is purchased through your OYS account may be higher or lower than you expected. The maximum delayed time is up to 12 hours when the money comes to the customer's OYS account before purchasing the SPY or CSPX (or a similar asset).

▲ Although CFDs on the S&P 500 Index are not listed on the stock exchange, it is possible that assets included in the S&P 500 that are traded on the stock exchange may not be traded at that particular moment because of exchange working hours. Therefore, it will not be possible to purchase the SPDR S&P500 ETF or iShares Core S&P 500 UCITS ETF (or a similar asset).
