- The Company charges a quarterly fee on profitable trades only. The fee is calculated based on the asset value at 23:59 on the last day of a quarter. The charged quarterly fees may reduce profits or even cause losses. In case the fee amount for the previous quarters exceeds the current quarterly fees, then no further quarterly fee will be charged until the investment is profitable again on the day of the calculation for the quarter. If the total payable fee is more than the commission charged on the realized profit, which is the profit fixed when all positions are closed, then the fee on the realized profit is not charged.
- The margin call is issued as soon as your equity reaches 100% of the margin. When you subscribe to the leveraged OYS SP500 (100%) Portfolio, the margin call is issued at the moment of opening positions.
- Raw spreads and swaps mean spreads and swaps as they are on the liquidity provider's side, without markups.

* The value of the swap for the CFD for cryptocurrencies is specified in annual term.

Crypto currencies are traded on non-regulated decentralized digital exchanges. The pricing of crypto currency CFDs is derived from these exchanges, which may mean the following:

Market depth is limited to what is available in the order books of such exchanges which are not regulated and do not provide the relevant protections.
Market data and price feeds are subject to disruptions because of the internal rules of these exchanges or their pricing engines.

Blockchain technologies, which are the backbone of crypto currency systems, are subject to regulatory bans, hard forks, the activities of hackers, mining cartels and other malicious actors, which may cause further market disruption.

Charges and funding costs tend to be significantly higher than for other CFD products. Fees can include the spread, funding charges, and commissions. The impact of these fees, may affect your likelihood of making a profit.

Digital exchanges may introduce trading suspensions or other actions that could result in cessation of trading on such exchanges and/or the price and market data feed becoming unavailable. By trading CFDs in Crypto currencies you accept that where trading ceases and then resumes again at either the relevant initial digital exchange or on any successor exchange thereof, there may be significant price differential which may impact the value of your CFD positions in the relevant Crypto currencies and result in significant gains or losses.

Crypto currency CFDs are not suitable and/or appropriate for all clients. Any person who intends to trade or invest in crypto currency CFDs should have detailed and updated knowledge of the block chain industry.
